Mr. O'Brien subsequently drove to the residence of Dr. Mckiroy, the good priest who had devoted so much attention to him in prison. The people were very enthusiastic and Police Inspector Carter at one point drew his menace at the crowd. Mr. O'Brien therenpon jumped off his car and asked the Inspector if he was a free man. The Inspector replied in the affirmative. "Then," said Mr. O'Brien, "the people have a perfectly legal right to approach me, and if you provoke a disturbance on your head will rest the consedisturbance on your head will rest the conse-quences."

The Inspector thereupon drew off his men and Mr. O'Brien proceeded on his journey amid tremendous sheers. He had a hearty greeting from the Rev. Dr. McEiroy and then visited Dr. McOornad, whose attention to the distinguished prisoner while in jail cannot be too highly extelled. At 10 o'clock Mr. O'Brien addressed a public meeting of the inhabitants of Tuliamere. He had previously received a cordict state of the hand from Mr. John Mandeville, his fellow prisoner, who had journeyed up from Mitchellstown to greet him, and from Mr. Thomas Coadon, M. P., who had also reached Tuliamore. The little who had also reached Tullamore. Preparations had been in progress to give him a thorough "eead mille failthe," but were not completed. The League branches, however, and the Gaello Athletic Clubs soon got and the Gaelic Athletic Clubs soon got matters in order, and from 8 p. m. bands and deputies and huge crowds were seen wending their way toward the King's Bridge Railway terminus. In Park Gate street, near Phænix Park, the members of the Gaelic Athletic Club formed up in line in their uniforms and wearing their club's colors, and marched six deep to the terminus, their appearance creating a pro-found impression. Mr. O'Brien's train arrived in fairly good wime and he was welcomed by a large number of Members of Parliament in a hearty manner. Outside the demonstra-tion was stupendous in its magnitude; A torchlight procession was organized and enormous multitude, who crowded the mag-nificent thoroughfare. Mr. O'Brien was very

For I know they are not mere empty words, but come from the hearts and from the deepest feelings of my generous countrymen. [Renewed cheers.] But you will have to excuse me. I really do not feel quite equal to any great public excitement at this moment. I make Mr. Baifour a present of the apology— [Groans, and a voice: 'Down with him'—] because it is the only admission he is very likely to wring from me. [Loud cheers.] I do not think that many speeches are necessary to tell you sit that I feel about the kindness and goodness of my countrymen. Now there is one official here that I can praise safely aloud, because I imagine at his age and his exaited position that he is equally indifferent our sacred cause, in thunder or in sunshine. [Cheers.] You do not, I know, expect me to eat yery much to-night, brothers, if for no other reason, that a man who has been dead and buried for three months is rather a bad authority on current politics. [Laughter.] But I cannot depart from Tullamore without attempting to express my gratitude and, I think I may say the gratitude of the Irish people, to Dr. Moorhead, who is, I believe, the inventor, the man who conjured up that most unexpected apparition; he uninvited visiting Justice, that most unwelcome and unbidden guest at the sides.

Now there is one official here that I can praise according to the charter, to call the mate according to the charter, to call the mate according to the charter, to call the mate safely aloud, because I imagine at his age and his exaited position that he is equally indifferent to the smiles or the frown of Mr. Balfour, and this the chaplain, your venerable partial property and the property of the Catacombs. [Cheers.] As he is near me I am afraid I am doing the one thing to make him my enemy. But, at all hazards. I am bound to say that the trained and the very appearance of that grand old man trude to the resolute the prison day after day in all sorts of weather, always with a brave and cheery word upon his lips—his very arranged according to the caracombs. [Cheers and laughter]. One of the addresses referred in specially generous terms to the struggle which we have been endeavoring to make against the attempt to turn political imprisonment to the basest political uses [cheers] for the purpose of blackening and of stigmatising and dishonoring the representatives of ing and dishonoring the representatives of the Irish people in the eyes of England. [A voice: 'They will never do it, Mr. O'Brien.']

From the beginning I regarded Mr. Balfour's boast that he would sink us to the level of

A PIECE OF CALCULATED BRUTALITY [cheers], as a part of the deliberate policy of defamation, which unscrupulous men are car they believe in it, but as a piece of base party tactics and maneuvers. [Cheers.] I believe it to be simply a new and more truculent form of the 'Parnellism and Crime' policy of the London Times [groans], and I believe it would have been base in us if we had laid down sub missively under any infamy of that sort [cheers.] As it happened the lot fell to me first, and I did what thousands of Irishme would have done if it had fallen to their lot [Cheers.] I gave full and free public notice that so long as my life remained I would not wear criminal uniform, that I would not associate with criminals, and that I would not perform any task that was unworthy o say in the principal or main degree. I can ell you that it was a lonely duel, enough for long time-if you could call it a duel. It seemed to be very like a contest between a pocket pistol and a gatling gun. It was lonely duel enough, alone there in the depths of that jail until Dr. Moorhead and Mr. Egan and his Red Cross Knights came trooping in as good lookers on. [Loud cheers.] It is a serious thing to say, but I do solemnly believe that, but for the visiting justice and but for the angry public opinion that sprang up behind them, I believe it possible that there might have been very different scenes in Tul-lamore Jali, ending with a very different celebration from that of to-night. It is a serious thing to say, and I am sorry to have to say it. I do not ground it entirely upon Mr. Balfour's statement to Mr. Blunt. [Cheers.] I understand that Mr. Blunt has communicated to the public that cold-blooded and murder statement. He communicated it to me months En route from Tuflamore, whence he de-parted at 7 o'clock for Dublin, which he his being one of Mr. Balfour's victims himroyal one. At all the stations there were the my mind that I told Mr. Moorhead and Mr. most marked attentions and rejoicings. "But mind you, apart altogether from that statement of his to Mr. Blunt, I hold that we are entitled, we are constrained, to infer the very worst as to the consequences from the position that he has taken up in public, from tery under which we were brought here and buried in what they supposed would turn to be the Catacombs of Tuliamere. [Cheers.] I bethe Catacombs of tuliamere mitted upon many of my friends and upon myself even under the searching eye of public opinion. Well, I have said that it might have ended differently but for the visittorchlight procession was organized and the quays were traversed by many thousands with bands of music and banners, the "Gaelis" figuring prominantly. Mr. O'Brien was well pleased with his reception. He took his seat in the Lord Mayor's carriage and was conveyed to the Innerial Hotel in O'Conneil street, from one of the windows of which he addressed an enormous multitude, who crowded the magenormous multitude, who crowded the magnificent thoroughfare. Mr. O'Brien was very weak after his day's exertion. He had delivered a long speech in Tullamore and shorter addresses at other places and in Dublin his speech was comparatively brief.

O'BRIEN'S STEECH AT TULLAMORE.

At Tullamore, where Dr. McElroy occupied the chair, Mr. O'Brien had said: 'My friends, I feel it very pleasant to be here to-night and to see so many friendly faces around me. But I never felt more embarrassed in my life than now, how to deal with the perfect torrent of kind expressions that has been flowing in on me all day. [Cheers.] I should like particularly to-day to give suitable replies, one by one, to the addresses to which I have just been It is but justice that I should give this expression to what I think of the subject regarding the doctor. For although I felt bound and constrained for the last two months to decline the ministrations of any official doctor, it is not for want of confidence in Dr. Ridley's skill, but for want of confidence in Mr. Balfour's truthfulness and honor.

[A volce: 'Down with Balfour, the Har.'] I am afraid I would be doing those prison officials a better turn with this wretched Government now in power if I gave them a certificate as brutes and savages, but I really cannot do it.

For the moment, however, it is careful to add, the task is to restore the foundations of order. This may only mean that the Unionists want to leave a way of retreat open to them in case of necessity, but it is significant, coming first German legation resignation of Sir Michael Hi Beach and his declarations going more than

Champion Hodges Will Play To-Night-No Match Game To-Day.

The chess match between Messrs. Judd and Hodges, which has been running all week was not continued to-day. Mr. Hodges was at the table at 10:30 this morning, ready to play, but Mr. Judd preat the table at 10:30 this morning, ready to play, but Mr. Judd preferring to postpone play till Monday morning, the postpone ment to that time was made. With yesterday's victory, Mr. Judd's score is 4 to his opponent's 2. According to the terms of the match, the winner of the stake, $250, is the one first winning five games. Mr. Judd is therefore now playing the part of Moses viewing the promised land. Whether he will get a chance to sample the milk and honey, Monday's game will do much to determine. There is a general opinion that Hodges is giving the St. Louis champion a pretty hard tussle, a harder one than he had anticipated. Judd is good only for matches, admitting that he cannot stand the pressure of a tournament, which extends the strain over so many days.

To-day will, however, not close without some very interesting chess. This evening Mr. Hodges will play a number of games simultaneously at the Chess, Checker and Whist Club's room in the Emile Building, Ninth and Olive, south side of the second floor. Hodges is "some pumkins" at simultaneous play. At Louisville some time ago he made a better record with the local players at simultaneous play than did Dr. Zukertort who met the same players. It is expected that he will give an interesting exhibition this evening. The club will welcome any chess player who wants to tackle the Nashville champion.

At the noon hour to-day for a little recreation Mr. Hodges played four blindfold games with John Holman, referee in the present match. He is pretty good at that kind of play, but was no match for the St. Louisan who won the majority of the games.

This afternoon Ben E. Foster and A. N. Robbins, the celebrated problemist, were at the club-rooms and were asked to name the ten best players in the city atter Max Judd. They both agreed on the following list Messrs. Foster, L. Haller, W. Haller. Holman, Fick, Binkel, Robbins, McNair, Murphy, and Koerper. The last two are not members of the club. Nearly ail of these will have a "go" at Mr. Hodges this evening. It is t

THE STORY OF THE PRESIDENT'S ENVOY TO THE POPE.

cretary Bayard Declares the Published Report to Be Without Foundation—The President's Gift to the Pope Made as an Individual—The Thoebe-Carlisic Contest Individual—The Thoebe-Carlisle Contest
—Adoption of the Majority Report by the

WASHINGTON, D. C., January 21.—Secreta Bayard was shown this morning the dispatch Bayard was shown this morning the dispatches purporting to come from London concerning the sileged "envoy" of the President to the Pope, his failure, according to the dispatches, to present himself at the Vatican, and the statement that he had been "boycotted" by members of the American Legation at Rome on purely personal grounds, eyer since his arrival in tha city. When the Secretary had finished reading the dispatches he laughed heartly. "It is all rubbish," said he. "The President sent no envoy to the Pope. He could not do so. The only Government in Italy with which this country has political relations is the Government of King Humbert. The President sent his gift as a private individual. I did not ever his gift as a private inquidual. I did not even know he had sent it until I say the fact stated in the newspapers. I understand it was sent through Cardinal Gibbons, who selected the person to whom he intrusted its delivery in Rome. The State Department was in no way concerned with the matter, nor has any person been authorized to act as the President's representative at the Vatican."

Secretary Bayard was much amused by the story about the "boycottine" of the gentleman who was credited with being the President's "envoy" by the American Legation. "The American Legation," said he, "consists of one person, Mr. Charles Dougherty, who is now in this country on leave, and consequently could not possibly have boycotted anybody in Rome."

Judge Stallo, the American Minister at Rome, is a gentleman of quiet tastes who spends most of his time at his books and goes but little if all into society. He has been criticised for this by members of the American colony, accustomed to the lavish display of the former Minister, the young millionaire, Astor of New York. Efforts have been made to misrepresent Judge Stallo in every possible way because he would not and could not entertain these people as they wished, being a man of limited means. The ridiculously false stories about the President's so-called "envoy" are probably part of the same game to discredit the Administration and put it in a false position and it is quite likely proceeded from the same source. know he had sent it until I say the fact stated

The Thoebe-Carlisle Case. WASHINGTON, D. C., January 21 .- It was reported here last night that Speaker Carlisle contemplated writing a letter to Chairman Crisp requesting the latter to move to reconsider the vote of yesterday afternoon and allow a full and free investigation of Thoebe's claim. An intimate friend of the Speaker states that there is not the slightest foundation for such a rumor. On the contrary, Representative McCreery and the Speaker had a conference last night, and the latter suggested that it would be well for Mr. Crisp to retrain from forcing the matter to a final vote until the Democrats in the House have a quorum present. Just now a number of Democratic members are out of the city, and they have been requested to return to Washington at once.

A demand for the regular order operated as an objection.

Washington, D. C., January H.—Mr. Crisp of Georgia called up the contested election case of Thoebe against Carlisle, the pending question being on the resolution of the majority of the Committee on Elections, confirming Mr Carlisle's title to his seat.

Mr. Hogg of West Virginia entered a motion to reconsider the vote by which the House vesterday defeated the resolution providing for a reopening of the case.

Mr. Chipman of Michigan asked unanimous consent to offer a resolution bearing on the subject; but objection came in the shape of demands for the regular order.

The vote on the majority resolution resulted yeas, 140; nays, 6. No quorum. Mr. Crisp stated that the vote had disclosed the fact that there was no quorum present, and moved that the House adjourn. The Speaker pro tem, stated that he had made a mistake in entertaining the motion to reconsider entered by Mr. Hogg. That motion could not be entertained until the previous question under which the House was now operating should have been disposed of.

The motion to adjourn was agreed to—yeas, 139; nays 123—a strict party vote.

The market opened strong at flags and advanced to 23%, when the news of the well was received, and in a few minutes values broke to 8940, amid the greatest excitement. At 1:30 o'clock, however, there was a slight reaction and prices had recovered to 90c. The McGowan well was entirely unexpected. It has been a "gasser" for fifteen months, but it was drilled deeper, with the result stated. Trading has been very heavy all morning.

committee hope to obtain some light by the examination of the books. Last month the company put out 8,000,000 cubic feet of watergas. For the year the total was about 84,000,000, showing a big increase, although pipe-laying stopped last September. Some of the members of the committee have a suspicion that water gas is going south of Washington avenue, though all the testimony offered has been calculated to disprove this suspicion, except one fact, viz., the disposition between the increase of out-put of the St. Louis Company, which only claims, with its extensive territory and pipe system a 5 per cent, increase, and that of the Water-Gas Company, which, with only about twenty miles of pipe, is putting out mearly $,000,000 cubic feet more per month now than formerly. Manager Davis of the Water-Gas Company fall 20 per cent. short of the productive figures at the works. For this he is not able to account, except that it possibly disappears through condensation. Mr. Davis' presentation of the business of the company is accreely calculated to invite the attention of investors. He says the company is not declaring dividends; 31 per 1,000, the price they have been forced to make by competition, is too low, and 20 per cent of the production is lost in the shuffle.

Besides these matters there are other subjects, which the committee will inquire into.

charling dividents; a, per 1, but all the hards too low, and 20 per cent of the production is lost in the shuffle.

Besides these matters there are other subjects, which the committee will inquire into. Every certificate holder, who has appeared before the committee, stated that according to his belief the terms of the Gas Trust agreement had been faithfully carried out by the parties in interest. Among the conditions was the transfer of the $140,000 claim of the United Gas Improvement Company against the Water-Gas to the Trust. So far the inquiry has failed to show that the Water-Gas Company ever made any such note or notes aggregating that sum for the Trust. The only transaction of the character brought to light was that the Water-Gas Company had made out a note for about $100,000 fer the Philadelphia syndicate for money advanced to the company to push the pipe laying so as to comply with the requirements of the franchise on that subject.

An unexpected development to-day is the fact that Dwight Tredway is still President of the Water-Gas Company and acts in advisory capacity with Manager Davis on such propositions as submitting the company's books to the inspection of the committee. It will be remembered that one of the first witnesses called in the gas investigation was President Tredway, who surprised the committee by stating in answer to questions that he was not president of the company, as was generally supposed. More particular inquiry brought out the fact that President Tredway had resigned on the dull November day on which the company, no attention was spid to the deterred confirmation of action. It appears, however, that the confirmation took place, as Managing-Director Davis only pigeon-holed the resignation, and that Mr. Tredway is still directing the company's affairs in masters of importance, conjointly with Manager Davis.

River Wrecks. A statement of the wrecks on the river be veen the mouth of the Missouri and the Mer amee River has been secured by Harbor Comnissioner Murphy. Since 1858 fifty-eight steamboats and eighteen barges have been wrecked on the river between the points named. This large number of wrecks is in the opinion of the Harbor Commissioner due to the condition of the channel in front of the city. The Missouri sweeps across to the Illinois above at its mouth and thense hacket. nois shore at its mouth, and thence back to the Missouri side in a strong current, which makes the channel along which the boats have been obliged to move. On the Missouri side the stream cuts in strewing boulders along the shallow places. Mr. Murphy intends to em-

A "Pushing" Policy.

The position taken by Councilman Vogel or the conduct of the committees has created a quired for the statement is often heard that the projectors have not appeared "to push" the measures, which are accordingly left in the committee-box. The cause of delay was called to his attention recently by Chairman Rohan of the Railroad Committee, who in explanation of some delay in taking up a bill said the projectors did not seem to want it considered just then. Mr. Yogel objects to the "pushing" policy and on the floor of the Council last night suggested that the committeemen would essape some adverse criticism by disposing of the business in the boxes without waiting for interested parties to begin "pushing" the bills.

THE TESTIMONY.

On December 28 William Peters, a citizen, and Officer Maioney, who was attired in citizen's citizen, and officer Maioney, who was attired in citizen's citizen, and officer Majon had also played in the game. Officer Fagin had also played there on a previous occasion. On the testimony of those three and Detectives Moberly and Kelly, who have charge of the suppression of gambling, the indictment was secured. It is understood that there are other very important witnesses who will be produced at the trial, but three names will be held back for the present. The proceeding was quife a surprise to Burtt, who appeared considerably worried when arrested. It appears to be the intention of the authorities to close his place if possible. There are numerous other "craps" houses in the city, but this one establishment does nearly as much business as all the others combined and the stakes played for there are higher than are played for at any of the other places.

A BOARDING-HOUSE HORROR.

MINNBAPOLIS, Minn., January 21 .- A cial to the Journal from Tower, ninety miles north of Duluth, says that the boarding-house and saloon of Nelson Barnaby was ing-house and saloon of Nelson Barnaby was burned last night. It was a rickety structure and burned so rapidly that it was with difficulty the people escaped. Many of the inmates jumped from the upper stories and ten perished in the fiames. The only ones whose names are known are; Robert Whitford, Wm. Byrnes, Mike Trump and Dan O'Connell. Two other boarding-houses were burned, but the inmates escaped. Pecuniary loss, $2,000. The mercury was 56 below, and absolutely nothing could be done to extinguish the flames.

Collision Between Ships NEW YORK, January 21 .- The French steamer Gascogne for Havre, and the Switzer and for Antwerp, collided off Robbins' Reef Light-house in the Upper Bay about 1 o'clock to-day. The Switzerland ran into the Gasoogne's starboard quarter, as both were proceeding to sea. The damage done is not definitely known, as yet, but the Switzerland was compelled to return to her dock in Jersey City. The Gasoogne ran down to the Lower Bay and anchored. It's thought that no person was injured.

I home. Mr. Griffith lives in the vicinity of Missouri City. On my return home from Mr. Griffith's, while traveling along the public road, which was near the railroad track, I heard the approach of the train. Presently the noise of the moving train ceased, and a few minutes after I heard the report of firearms. I was then near a point known as Adams' crossing, a place where the country road crosses the Wabash track, and is situated one mile east of Missouri City. I now suspicioned that something was wrong with the train and advanced toward the crossing, at which point I judged the train the crossing, at which point I judged the train to be. While advancing to this point and when 100 yards from the train I received a and ankie joint. I am of the opinion that the elving this injury I went immediately to the Swinney was asked if he was acquainted with John Hargrave, who is charged with the same offense. "I have only known Hargrave for about thirty days. He had been outting cord-wood for my father, William Swinney. My acquaintance with him is very limited."

The reporter then turned to John Hargrave and asked him if he had any statement to make, at which time Swinney interrupted with the remark: "Do you-think I would attempt to rob a train with such a fellow as that?"

Hargrave replied that he had nothing to say; reached Mr. Adams' the officers arrived an tempt to rob a train with such a fellow as that?"

Hargrave replied that he had nothing to say; that he knew nothing of the affair. The reporter observed that Hargrave was averse to speaking in the presence of Swinney, and quietly requested Shoriff Thomason to remove Hargrave to a private room, which the Sheriff kindly consented to do. While thus in private, in the presence only of the Sheriff and the reporter, Hargrave made the following confession: "I am guilty of an attempt to rob the Wabsah express train last Wednesday evening. Barney Swinney per suaded me, William Harris and John Drew to undertake the job with him. We met several times to talk over the plan. Some one of the three suggested that we wreck the train, but I andertake the job with him. We met several times to talk over the plan. Some one of the three suggested that we wreck the train, but I objected to this and said I would not go with them if they tried to wreck the train. We then agreed to signal the train to stop, order the engineer to come off the engine and open the door to the express car. Swinney and I were to enter the express car and command the agent to deliver or break open the same. Meanwhile Harris and Drew were to keep guard. We did not intend to molest the passengers. After we had secured the booty we were to meet at a neighboring school-house and divide the spoils. We used our handkerchiefs for masks. Swinney armed me with a 35 Smith & Wesson revolver and a Springfield rife. He was armed with a 45-caliber Colt's revolver. The train stopped promptly when signaled, but when we commanded the efgineer to come off the engine some one fired upon us. Immediately afterward several other shots were fired. We returned them and retreated, and were again shot at by persons who were concealed on the roadside. Before Swinney and I separated he took off and threw away a duck overcoat and a pair of oversils (which were afterward found at the place described). I did not see him afterward until we met at Missourl City in charge of the officers. I surrendered to the officers who were pursuing me. I was afraid to make this confession in the presence of Swinney for fear the officers. I surrendered to the omeers wan were pursuing me. I was afraid to make this confession in the presence of Swinney for fear he will kill me. I don't want him to know that I have confessed. Harris failed to meet us at the appointed hour and was not present when we attacked the train. Drew weakened during the day and gave our scheme away to the officers at Missouri City."

Swinney bears a bad character in the community where he lived and there is a determination among the people of this county to see that the full extent of the law is meted out to him.

FIRES. Planing-Mill and Box Factory Burned-

CHICAGO, Ill., January 21 .- Fire was discov ared early this morning between two plies coards in the yards of the Soper Lumber Com boards in the yards of the Soper Lumber Company. The flames spread rapidly and soon enveloped Henry Stevens' box factory on one side and the Soper Lumber Company's planing-mill on the other. These were both entirely destroyed. In the upper story of the box factory machinery valued at $4,000 was rendered entirely useless, and the eleven machines in the planing-mill were also destroyed. Several freight cars standing on a switch near the planing-mill, which were filled with finished humber, ignited from the sparks, and two cars belonging to the Chieago, Burlington & Quincy, and one each of the Wabash and Chicago & Atlantic were partially consumed. Hard work on the part of the firemen, however, kept the flames from eating into the pile of lumber stored in the yards and confined the blaze almost entirely to the two buildings. Soper & Oo. had over 100,000 feet of fluished lumber stored in their shed and planing-mill, half of which was destroyed. They estimate their loss at about 325,000 and are fully protected by insurance. Henry Stevens' loss is principally upon machinery and will not exceed $5,000. He is also insured.

Copple's fine residence, three miles southeas of here, was totally destroyed by fire las night while the family were away attending a church meeting. Loss $2,500, with only light

Of this he writes that he encountered a worse enemy than the taractic developed from his mode of life) and taking hold of him with the tenacity of death itself. With this enemy he struggled very hard, which, like the Indian's prejudice, he had to grapple because it was violent, and, like his own will power ever the aswage—that which he employed to conquer and subdue—was in its nature as overpowering as the influence he exerted on the savage mind. It penetrated with magical effects, and made its permanent result. Let him explain. In 1887 he wrote from Gleen Falls, N. THE TROUBLES WITH THE APACHES IN NEW MEXICO.

Capt. James R. Hutton of the Army Discusses the Indian Troubles—Spirit of the Tribes Broken—Exaggerated Reports of Outrages Sent Out by Settlers for Money-Making Purposes—The Judge Phillips Outrage—Mexican Soldiers in the Bath— A Frontiersman's Talk.

through the city this morning on his way to Chicago. Capt. Hutton has for many years actively engaged in many Apache can paigns. In conversation with a Post-Dis-Paron reporter he said: "In my opinion the Indian troubles that have so long afflicted Ari-zona are practically ended. There may be a Yew outbreaks in the future, but I look for none of any great importance. The Indians have become convinced that if they leave their reservation ultimate capture is certain, and the effect of sending Geronimo and his band to Florida has had a most salutary influence on those who remain. "In denouncing the Apache outbreaks peo ple should not forget two facts, one that they have been greatly exaggerated and the other that the United States rnment is by no means blameless as regards the Indians. Any one acquainted wit the state of affairs in Arizona knows that many break as only less desirable than an actual raid. Large numbers of troops are put in large. In order to secure this trade of outrages are sent out, and instances are not wanting where out-breaks have actually been incited by those who hoped to make a large profit by selling supplies to the soldiers sent in pursuit selling sto plote to the soldiers sent in pursuit. Some three years ago an instance of the length to which the settlers would proceed was brought to light, and thoroughly ventilated. A terrible story was telegraphed to headquarters, giving minute particulars of the murder of Judge Phillips and his tamily. A long and circumstantial account was given of how a party of miners found the bodies of Judge Phillips, his wife and his two sons, fearfully mutilated, and that his 6-year-old daughter had been hung to a tree on a meat-hook, run through the back of her neck. She was said to be still living when rescued, but died shortly afterwards. Of course, this story caused a blaze of indignation, and three troops of cavairy were sent to the scene. Scarcely had they left when a telegram was received from Judge Phillips, saying that he and his family were alive and well in San Francisco, and had not been in Arizons for six months. A courier was dispatched to recall the troops, and the originators of the story were deprived of the pleasure of supplying the cavairy with hay and grain at expressions that the indian outbreaks to

A series of chiefs of most exceptional ability appeared one after the other, Viotorio, Cochiee, Mangas, Colorow and Geronimo, and for years they were almost continuously on the warpath.

THE LEADERS HAVE DISAPPEARED; the spirit of the tribes is proken. The Mexican troops have aided us in cutting them off from their mountain fastnesses, and the Apache troubles may be considered as over forever.

"Speaking of Mexican troops," the Captain went on to say, "I saw a very peculiar and amusing sight while on the Lower Rie Grande. In the Northern States of Mexico criminals, instead of being sentenced to prison, are sen-

THE MEXICAN METHOD. Train Robbers There Invariably Try to Escape and Are Killed. Juan Otero, in reference to the capture of the train robbers at Missouri City Wednesday "These things are managed better in Mexico than in this country. When the Mexican Central was first opened there were several robberies and numerous attempts. Other roads also suffered in this way. It threatened to become an intolerable nuisance, and it was evident that something must be done to stop it. A most effective plan was therefore adopted, which is no operation to day with excellent results. When a train robber is arrested charges are preferred and all the preliminaries for a regular indictment gone through, but the case never comes to trial. It is a singular fact that within forty-eight hours of the capture of a prisoner it is found necessary to change his quarters. He is taken from prison under guard, but invariably tries to escape before reaching his new place of confinement, and is shot in the attempt. The effect of this rashness on the part of the prisoners is most excellent, as the expense of their trial is saved and a general impression pervades the criminal portion of the community that capture, when interfering with a railroad, mean death. If the Shoriff's posse who captured the Wash robbers had managed to loss them in the woods it would have been a most fortunate accident."

GIVING AWAY TAX MONEY.

The Senate has again passed, this time by a vote of 48 to 10, the bill to remit all laims against the States for taxes unpaid under the direct tax act of August 5, 1861, and to repay to each of them the amounts said. The sums collected directly from ndividuals by the United States are to be held in trust for the tax-payers by the States, but it is provided that all such individual claims must be filed within six

The serious objections raised to this bill llustrate very clearly the impossibility of naking a fair gift distribution among states or individuals of tax money colected in some remote year. The fact that there was only a partial collection of the tax, four-fifths of it or more than $77,000,-000 being still due, and the Government not needing the money, is the only arguent for the bill. To keep the money colected from the States that paid, and not nake the delinquent States pay, is not fair. But the money now to be paid back has been collected from all the States, from a new generation of purpose. Most of the taxpayers of 1861 are dead and gone, or the proofs of their payments are lost. Moreover, the law by which a tax once paid necessarily distributes itself through the various secretions of the social body until all share the burden has operated in this case longago, and no fair compensation of that burden to individuals is now possible. The money paid back to individual taxpayers or States is simply money collected from everybody and given to some, in the vain attempt to effect an equalization which is now impracticable.

But the repayment of $20,000,000 is no nly quite a bribe to an influential cluster of States, but is one way of getting rid of the surplus and heading off the taxreduction pressure. It is also a precedent for other bills to restore taxes paid by bygone generations, the income taxes collected from the pay of military and naval officers during the war, the cotton tax, etc. An amendment to provide for paying back the old cotton tax of some $60. 000.000 or $80,000,000 was lost by a vote of 46 to 16, but some who voted against it did so merely to keep from overloading the bill, and pledged themselves to vote for a separate cotton tax refunding bill.

The cotton tax entered into the price of otton goods which was worn out and paid for at least twenty-five years ago. The onsumers who bore that burden cannot be identified and compensated. The pretense of refunding that tax would be a mere grab of over $60,000,000 for the private benefit of individuals. Yet, either as a matter of public policy, only a very finical and fanciful distinction can be drawn between a bill to refund the cotton taxes and a bill to retroit temperance people who are fightvate benefit of individuals. Yet, either as

A BILL to punish and prevent as unlaw ful the formation of "trusts" of the kind now reteiving so much public censure was introduced in the Missouri Legislature by Mr. CURTIS last March, but failed to pass. our solons not having had the wickedness of the new monopoly device sufficiently impressed on their so-called minds. The THE Macon Telegraph says that Bou- bill provided for the imposition of a fine of TELLE is the "sand-bag of the House of $1,000 upon any corporation or upon any Representatives," but the comparison is director or stockholder thereof that should not felicitous. A sand-bag has its mouth enter into any contract or agreemen tied up with a string, while BOUTELLE with any other corporation, or with requently has his stopped up with his the directors or stockholders of the same for the creation of any trust, the object of which was to control directly or indirectly the corporate actions of such corporations through the instrumentality of trustees. It also imposed a fine of $1,000 on any persons acting as trustees in such cases, and provided that no corporation of any other State should be permitted to do business in this State when handicapped by such a trust arrangement between it and any other corporation, either within or outside the rection, and it is hoped that the next Legislature will be sufficiently awake to pass some such measure or a stronger one.

Protection From Sewer-Gas.

Protection From Sewer-Gas.

From the Chicago Tribune.

Wherever there are sewers there will be sewer-gas, no matter how perfect the pinmbing. The all-important question is to keep it from pervading the living apartments of the house, and this can be done by a very simple method. At present the refuse which generates the gas by fermentation pours into the main sewer from the kitchen, the water-closent and bath-rooms. In case of any obstruction or the effect of wind in driving it back there is nothing to prevent it from returning to the rooms of the house through the very system which is intended to carry it away. The old theory that the 8-pipe and the standing water in the bowl will act as a seal or intercepter is known to be incorrect. The fool gas will find its way through the pipes and rise through the water and then spread itself through the house. The only safeguard is a stand-pipe to earry passage of the bill. A bill to refund some $80,000,000 received from the direct tax on cotton might be as equitable, but a different and less powerful group of States would be interested in it. It would stand a poor show, because it would cost the other States about four times as much as they will get out of the other direct tax refunding bill.

Wermont's Vanished Sheep.

From the Springfield (Mass.) Republican.

The Rutland Herald takes exception to the conclusion of the Republican that, as the number of sheep in Vermont has declined from 1,000,000 in 1850 to 378,000 in 1886, the wool tariff had failed to protect the industry in that State. The exception is: "If there had not been a tariff we should now have less than 100,000 sheep left." This is a most ridiculous assumption for which not the slightest proof is offered. We know, for there are the figures, that the wool tariff has not protected sheep-growing in Vermont; but how in the world does the Herald know that they are then the sheet has the here would have been less than 100,000 left to maintain 339 sheep on the average to the square mile in that crowded island; France, same area, and Germany 92, while the United unoccupied territory, is able to maintain but 16 sheep to the square mile? THE TIMES.

The Times says: "Farmers are beginning to look at the statistics, which show how much farmers have done for the country and how the manufacturers of clothing, agricultural implements and other things which farmers must buy have been protected at their expense. The St. Louis Light Cavalry.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch: Why is it that there are not more of the young men of St. Louis in our National Guard, especially in that most dashing of all arms of the service—the cavairy? I understand that there are not more than forty active members of the St. Louis Light Cavairy, whereas there ought to be at least 100. The efficient officers of this troop have been in the service for many years, the members are of some of the best families in the city, the company has excellent quarters and stables, a large arena in which to drill and ride, and holds out every inducement to young men who are fond of horseback exercise. I have often watched with a great deal of pleasure this company drill and could not help but admire the vim and dash displayed by the troopers in their many intricate maneuvers. And how their horses seemed to enjoy the work! There is a great deal of healthy exercise in the cavairy drill, and it does a person good to see the bright eyes and high color of the troopers after dismounting. I hear that the Government now furnishes this company with uniforms, saddies, bridles, blankets, etc., and consequently the expenses of the men are reduced to a infimum. I understand that the company owns a number of horses, and some of the members keep their saddles in the company's stables. Recruits are going in right along and young men who desire to become good horsemen should by all means join.

Our militia should receive every encouragement from the citizens and the people throughout the State. It should be our pride in these "piping times of peace" and our protection in case of internal disturbances.

Parents ought to encourage their sons when they express a desire to join the military. There is certainly no better training in the world for a young man than that of a soldier. Look at the sturdy limbs and erect carriage of all those young fellows in the military. There is certainly no better training in the world for a young man than that of a soldier. Look at the sturdy limbs and erect carriage of all those young fellows in the military. A SENSATIONAL CASE. The Coming Trial of Aldrich and Drape dence of the Post-Dispatch. CENTRALIA, Ill., January 20.—Attorney, Carpenter of Mt. Vernon and H. C. Goodney of Salem are now busily engaged in preparing evidence for their clients, Logan Aldrich and Max Draper, both of this city, charged with the abduction of two young girls named Clara Hodges and Alice Clawson, from Rome, been subposhed, and the cost of these to Marion County will be over $800. Clara Hodges, one of the young girls, is a daughter of Mail Clerk J. Hodges of the Central. Allos Clawson is the daughter of Rev. A. Clawson, the paster of the M. E. Church, South, who was located at Rome last year. The girls were brought to this city, and the effort made to run them to Kansas City. Three parties were implicated in the abduction, Dr. A. Bruce, who had gained some prominence as the local physician at Rome, and Aldrich D. and Draper of this city. The two latter did not bear the best of reputation, and it was generally supposed had been employed by Dr. Bruce and a man named Garrett of Kansas City to deliver the girls in that city. The girls were intercepted upon the eve of their departure and Dr. A. Bruce was arrested. Aldrich and Draper eduded the officer and made their escape, but were finally captured at Cairo and propert had the officer and propert back here and the officer. parture and Dr. A. Bruce was arrested. Aldrich and Draper eluded the officer and made their escape, but were finally captured at Cairo and brought back here, and the officers had to use the greatest precaution to prevent their lynching, so intense had the excitement and feeling of the people become against them. Bruce protested his innocence and demanded an immediate trial. He was given it before Squire Carpenter at Rome, and the evidence was such as to justify the 'Squire placing him under a bond of $1,000. Bruce could not give the bond, but was determined not to go to jail, and he made every effort to got a new hearing. It was a week or more before be succeeded, and he hired a guard to watch him during that time. The hearing before Jugge Boggs at Mt. Vernon resulted in his release, but the feeling at Rome was so bitter against them that many feared he would be summarily dealt with and his friends expected to hear of him being killed every day. Finally the Doctor announced his intention evidence the search the country and come to

"A gentleman came to me last night and said that he understood a controlling interest in the property could be obtained. The gentleman is not in politics. I told him I did not care to go into it. I am afraid to discuss the matter for fear I will go into it, and I really do not want to go in."

"Have you ever talked with Mr. Alien about purchasing the Republican?" "I did once. It came up during a conversation."
Geo. Allen, a son of the late Gerard B. Allen, formerly President of the Republican Company, when saked about the proposed sale, said in a early manner: "You can't sake me about the Republican. I don't know anything about the Hepublican," a statement which probably no one will contradict.

The Comptroller of the Currency on Stock The announcement in the Post-Disparch of created quite a stir among the brokers who have bought up the Receiver's certificates. Following is an extract from the lette of the Comptroller to Receiver Sephens of the Comptroller to Receiver Sephens:

"Your letter of the lith inst, is received and in reply you are informed that dividend checks should be withheld from all stockholders or other persons indebted to the bank who are also creditors until their stock liability or other indebtedness is fully settled. " I may add that in all cases you would be justified in paying dividends upon receiving undoubted security for the liability against which such dividend is retained."

There is no likelihood that any one will give security for the amount of a dividend check in order to obtain it. The Receiver will not accept personal security, and if the depositor needs the money he can obtain it much more easily from any bank than by borrowing it from the Receiver.

Receiver Stephens will leave for Washington with the dividend checks on Wednesday evening next. During his absence Walter Williams of Boonville will occupy his chair.

Thieves Blow a Jeweler's Safe to Pieces PITTSBURG, Pa., January 21 .- At 2 o'clock this morning a gang of burglars visited the jewelry store of Ben F. Phillips, North Jackson, O., ten miles from Youngstown, O. They bored off the lock, drilled two holes in the safe and drilled two holes in the sare and blew is open with dynamite, completely wrecking it, and securing gold watches, diamonds and jewelry amounting to $5,000. On Thursday Mr. Phillips received a package of gold watches and jewelry valued at $1,200 from G.B. Barrett & Co. of Pittsburg, and the same day received over $500 worth of rings from New York. Mr. Phillips believes Pittsburg crooks followed the packages to North Jacks

Mr. Bosley, though not a member of the committee, said he wanted to make a suggestion. The janitor had been in the employ of the Board nine years, and the Director thought there must be little ground to the charges.

"Don't pay any attention to him; he's liable to say anything," said Chairman Parle, and Director Bosley demanded to know if he had been called a liar. The Directors endeavored to get at each other, but were separated. Bosley being pushed inrough a glass door to get him out of Parle's way.

Business then proceeded. Bosley returned and stood by the shattered door. Onalitman Parle wanted the committeemen did not oppose him. He arose from his seat, saying: "If this is an executive session let's close the door." When he reached the door, near Bosley's position, he suddenly attacked the Director, felled him with a blow and kicked him in the chin. Spectators, who believed the trouble at an end, were greatly surprised as this, and could not interfere leastest can be interested be and the chairman if he did not remain quiet. This ended the affair.

The theater proper was in that part of Niblo's Garden now occupied by the stage. There was enough room on it for the Ravels to disport themselves to their hearts' content. They alternated French and English vaudevilles and charmed New Yorkers as they had never been charmed before. Jerome Ravel composed a fairy plees called "The Red Gnome." It was brought out for the first time in the Garden and New York went crasy over it. The cities as trod recklessly on one another's corns, elbowed their neighbors' ribs on either hand and flooked to see the fairy show. The contortions, leapings, tumblings, posturings and pantomimic show were all new to them and captured their simple hearts. Jerome was so encouraged by his success that he produced other fairy pieces, namely, the "Green Monster," "Maxulim; or, the Night Owi," the "Golden Pilis," "Asphedel," "Blanco," and the "Golden Egg." All the productions were successes, and the greatest of these was "Maxulim."

A POST-DISTATCH reporter called upon Mrs. Porter this morning and learned the following particulars. "On Thursday afternoon," said Mrs. Porter, "a man, apparently a laborar, came into the house without ringing and wentfrom foor to floor, knocking at various doors. Several of the boarders saw him, but paid no particular attention to his movements, supposing him to be a baggageman about to take away a trunk. He left in a short time, and soon afterwards one of the girls discovered that a cloak and a cheap breastpin belonging to her had disappeared. Last night about 6c clock a man rang the bell and said that he wanted a night's lodging. He was informed that none but ladies were admitted, and was told that if he wanted anything to eat he could get it at the kitchen. With much apparent indignation he replied that he was no tramp, and insisted on being provided with a night's lodging. He was so persistent that the girl was obliged to close the door in his face, whereupon he went away. At an early hour this morning the office boy, who sleeps in the office just east of the entrance, was awakened by volces underneath his window. Are you sure that this is the place? said one volce. It know it is, replied another, and immediately afterwards there was a sound as if some one were trying to remove the grating of the basement window. The boy looked out, and plainly saw two men at work endeavoring to effect an entrance through the window just east of the stairway leading to the front door. He fired two shots from his pletoi, and the men ran off. He does not think he hit either of them. They had broken the matter since."

The window through which the burgiars attempted to enter communicates with a high basement and is guarded by a heavy wire netting, which is broken near the bottom. Had the robbers succeeded in entering the cellar, access to the rest of the house would have been easy. The police are on the lookout for the maifactors.

Dusied herself in taking notes of the testimony.

The second witness on the stand was James Phillips, who testified to overt acts between George Graham and Cora Lee. Mrs. J. C. Plumb, wife of the Congregational minister, testified that on a certain visit made to her house by Geo. Graham and Cora Lee, she left them slone in the parior for a few minutes. On her return she caught them in a compromising position. Louis West testified to seeing a single woman drive the famous gray pony to town on the night of the murder and to return several hours later with a man and woman as companions. The Court then adjourned to 2 p. m.

autiful Lizzie Elder Elopes With a Negro

By Telegraph to the Posr-Disparch.
EVANSVILLE, Ind., January 21.—A great senthe developments in the arrest of Miss Lizzie pursued by detectives for some days, wiss Elder is a beautiful young ber. Miss Elder is a beautiful young girl, the daughter of one of the most prominent citizens of Hardinsburg, Ry. A short lime since the father observed the very suspicious demeanor of the young lady toward the negro, who is a very bright octoroon, almost white. To dissipate his fears he sent his daughter to visit relatives in Owensboro. She remained there will have well and registered at the leading hotel. In the meantime, it seems that she had been in correspondence with the negro and he came to the hotel the following day and represented himself as an emissary from her father, who had sent for the girl, stating that she had run away from her home. They left the hotel and all trace of them was lost until to-day. The father, who heard of her disappearance from Owensboro, came from that point to this city yesterday and immediately instituted a most rigorous search through the aid of the police and detectives. The runaways were located at Ms. Vernon this morning, where, it is said, they have been in hiding as man and wife. The girl was brought to this city in charge of an officer, and will be at once sent back to her disgraced and broken hearted family. Her dusky paramour is said to have departed for other climes, as his apprehension just at this time would not result to his good. The affair has created profound sensition, as the young lady was well known to many in this city, and her family and connections, who are now humiliated by her rash act, are said to be among the first people of Kentucky.

HAS COUNSEL NOW.

Adam Kuehner, the Wife Murderer, Pro-vided With an Attorney at Last. This morning in the Criminal Court Judge whose case S. S. Bass withdrew. Kuehner was brought up and told that as he had not yet engaged any counsel the Court would appoint an attorney for him. In case he did afterward employ counsel it would do him no harm. He could confer with Mr. Bentley now, and his case would be docketed for trial on February 18. Kuehner said he was satisfied with this arrangement. His triends were endeavoring, he believed, to raise money to secure him counsel, but he being in jail could do nothing in the matter himself.

Wheat and Provisions Influenced by an By Telegraph from Jones, McCormick & Kennet to the Post-Distance.

CHICAGO, January 21, 1p. m.—Wheat finctuated about a quarter of a cent this morning. The trading has been restricted to sealpers, who, in the absence of speculation, have had a tiresome day of it, standing round doing nothing. The tendency of cables was lewer, showing that they are not putting much stress in the Continental political situation, by which our own markets have been slightly influenced of late.

Corn was quite active and has presented a firmer undertone. There was a good demand early, which the crowd endeavored to satisfy, but finding it much larger than expected they covered later on, closing the market strong. Provisions—It was principally local tradings to-day. The strength manifested was a reflection from the corn market. A prominent bear bought heavily of ribs, half of which he sold. Closed quiet and steady.

severe cold weather of the past week have interrupted rail traffic West and Northwest, and business at the interior in that region has been checked. Collections there have been fair only, but in other sections they have been unusually prompt. There has been a seasonable business at Kansas City, but St. Joseph, Burlington, Omaha, St. Paul and Minneapolis have feit the effects of the severe weather and the snow blockade.

There are no developments respecting the strike of the Reading coal miners pointing to an early settlement. The strikers are disappointed over the failure to secure arbitration. In view of the surprising increase of about three hundred thousand tons of anthracite mined weekly in the regions at work, there is less uneasiness. The number of furnaces and mills which have changed from anthracite to bituminous fuel is surprising. About fifteen blast furnaces have banked their fires and twenty of the larger Eastern Pennsylvania industrial establishments. More furnaces will stop work owing to increased cost of product, rather than to scarcity of fuel.

The bank clearings at thirty-eighs cities for six days ended yesterday aggregate $913,000.000, or 7½ per cent under the total for the second week in January and 10 per cent below the like week in 1887. Leading money markets are all easier than last week. Disbursement on bonds, a decreased demand at New York for carrying stocks and the continued flow from the interior has put loan rates down at Boston, New York and Chicago, and mercantile paper is being discounted more freely than for a long time. Our special report from the Treasury shows that the Government's gross receipts for the week are $8,605,79, a considerable increase of over $2,350,000. The Treasurer's balance with depository banks is $37,804,121, an increase of over $2,350,000. The Treasurer's balance with depository banks is $37,804,121, an increase of over $2,350,000. fourth of them were trying to enforce union rules.

Total exports of wheat and flour from both coasts this week are equal to 2,230,565 bu, against 1,567,309 bu last week, the gain being chiefly at San Francisco. Total exports of wheat and flour from the Facific Coast for 1887 were equal to nearly 24,000,000 bu, against 37,127,000 bu in 1886 and 31,963,000 bu in 1886.

Produce speculation has has been more active, with prices sharply downward. Chicago operators favored the decline in grain—wheat the, corn 4c, and Chicago speculators in provisions were "shaking dut the tailers."

The Kansas City hog market has received a black eye, prices going down 40-250c per cwt. Cattle after reaching the highest price of the year fell 15-220c.

Sugar has declined under sharp speculative sales at London to realize. It is strong statistically, but domestic buyers have withdrawn from the market, while prices tend downward.

Coffee has been active, speculatively, with a tically, but domestic buyers have withdrawn from the market, while prices tend downward to the market, while prices tend downward to the market, speculatively, with a further break in remoter contracts on arrival of delayed news from Brazil of free deliveries and increased crop estimates, now ranging from $3,500,000 to $3,750,000 bags.

Leading Eastern makes of brown and bleached sheetings continue sold ahead of production, and some of the best-known prints have been advanced $6c. Colored fabries and prints are moving freely. Heavy-weight woolens are in increased sale, but at former prices. Manufacturers are not buying wool freely.

former prices. Manufacturers are not buying wool freely.

Anthracite coal at the East is 75e per ton higher at retail, but pig iron at Pittaburg is 50e851 lower, not $4 lower since January 1, as widely telegraphed.

Petroleum is 6e above the lowest point touched in the raid early in the week, and closes at 91½c.

Cotton has advanced 13-16e, owing to reduced crop movement.

The reports to Bradstreet's of business fallures number 308 in the United States this week, against 312 last week, and $25 in this week last year. Canada has $2 this week against 35 last week. The total of failures in the United States from January 1 to date is 913, against 1,007 in 1887.

NEW YORK, January 21—11 a. m.—The stock market opened dull but steady this morning, prices being either unchanged or but slight fractions different from last evening's figures. Reading and Missouri Pacific following, but the remainder were very dull and without feature of any kind. The market was firm to strong, however, in the early trading, Reading itending the advance with a gain of 45 per cent. There was some little reaction from the best prices late in the hour, but the market at 11 o'clock was quiet and firm at about the best prices reached. Manitoba was very strong on small transactions, gaining 1 per cent.

Noon—Money is easy at 24,265 per cent. Bar sliver, 96%c. The stock market was dull after 11 o'clock and prices were heavy in many cases, the gains of the first hour being neutralized, but later a better tone prevailed and the market closed quiet but firm at fractional advances over first prices.

FORENOON SESSION, CLOSING I P. M.

Receipts of wheat to-day were as large as same day last year for the first time in soveral weeks pust. — Corn in Ohloago reared its head aloft this morning as though it was in for a good boom. A railroad man, supposed to be R. R. Cable of the Rock Island, is said to be under the market. — A Minneapolis dispatch says: The storm has blockaded every road in the Northwest and the grain trade is patch says: The storm has blockaded every road in the Northwest and the grain trade is paralyzed as the result. In Dakota and Minnesota farmers are unable to get away from home, and there has not been 10,000 bushels of wheat marketed in the two States during the past four days. It is not likely that the roads will be open for freight trading for several days. Never since 1881 have there been so heavy enowfails as there have been throughout both Minnesota and Dakota this winter. Many country mills in the Northwest have been compelled to shut down for want of wheat, and many that have wheat are shut down because care cannot be had to ship out flour. — The South promises to be a good buyer of our wheat this season. So far a considerable amount has been taken for Southern mills and the prospects are this demand will continue and improve. Yesterday C. P. Burr & Oo, bought ten cars of wheat for shipment to North Charolins. "I didn's even know they had mills in that State." Said Mr. Burr. "Out the buyer writes me he will buy more of our wheat, as he finds St. Louis is the cheapest, market. I have inquiries also from Galveston, Tex., and Henderson, Ry., from new buyers. Georgia, Aliabama and Tennessee are buying wheat here and I have inquiries and orders from many sections in the South." — By Fatherwale in the south." — By Fatherwale in the south. complaints regarding the elevators of the Chamber of Commerce, J. E. Russell, engineer of that building, asys: "The two elevators in the Chamber of Commerce Building carry on an average of 4,000 passengers each daily. To do this each engine makes 210 revolutions per trip, the daily run being an average of 250 trips for each elevator, making a total of 52,500 revolutions for each engine. The number of persons carried up and down yearly on each elevator reaches the enormous amount of 1,250,000, or a total of 2,400,000 on both. Few persons unsequainted with the amount of work done requiring unceasing vigilance on the the part of those in charge realize the mental and physical strain of the mater mechanic who is the responsible head of all the compileated system of machinery and heating appliances required to keep this large building in running order." Mr. Russell also stated that arrangements were now being made to put in a couple of new elevators, which would be in position and running before many days.

—New York to Small & Raism: "Liverpool firm but quiet. Clearances from four ports for week, partly estimated, 500,000 wheat, 300,000 corn, 373,000 bbis and sks flour."

—Good authorities estimate February receipts of cotton at 335,000 bales. —There are twenty-two ships on passage from California and Oregon that will be due at ports in the United Eingdom between this and February 15. Their cargoes, principally of wheat and flour, are equivalent to 1,333,000 bu wheat. This would give an average arrival for the next four weeks of 333,000 bu weekly—not a large amount. From February 16 the next four weeks of 333,000 bu weekly—not a large amount and oregon will be exceedingly small. —A change has been made by the Exchange in arranging car lots of wheat and corn. An increase of 50 bushels to the next four weeks of 339,000 bu weekly—not a large amount. From February 16 the next four seeks of 333,000 bu weekly—not a large amount. COR. 4TH AND-LOCUST. DEATH CLAIMED HER.

A Young Lady Suddenly Expires on Morning of Her Wedding Day.

graph to the POST-DISPATCH. PLATTSBURG, N. Y., January 21 .- This usn ly quiet village was thrown into intense ex-Thursday by the tragic death of Miss Mary Heron, an estimable young lady of Plattsburg, who was to have been married on he morrow to a Mr. Thompson, occupying a esponsible position in Burlington, Vt., and own for the purpose of trying on her wedding ress and to spend the night with the mother f her intended husband. Mrs. Thompson was t the bedside of a sick friend and Miss feron retired early to all appearances in the best of health and spirits. When Irs. Thompson knocked upon the door in the norning there was no response and her suspicions being aroused she called in a neighbor who burst open the door. They were horrified to find Miss Heron lying upon the floor of her room in I so of blood, some of which was still flowing from her month and with life extinct. Although some thought death might have resulted from other than natural causes, have resulted from other than natural causes, it was evident that the young girl had suffered from a hemorrhage of the lungs, probably induced by a natural excitement upon the eve of her wedding day. Many things about the room showed that she had struggled to attract attention, but to no avail. The Coroner was summoned and decided that no inquest was necessary, as death had resulted from naturar features. The decessed was 23 years of age and was a daughter of Warren Heron of the Chatauquay Railroad. The event has cast a gloom over the town and much sympathy is felt for the lover, whom death has robbed of a bride.

THE BIG FIGHT.

OF THE SMITH-KILBAIN MILL.

That It Was a Good One—A Becord of Long Frize Ring Contests and the Time Required to Settle Them—The Sale of Florence M.—Sporting News and Notes.

In a very long letter addressed to Mr. R. K. etween Jake Kilrain of the United States and em Smith of England, Mr. George W. Atkin son, the referee, states that Kilrain could have won had he pursued his several advantages gained in the early part of the fight. Ex-tracts from the referee's letter are as follows: "The battle was the toughest and most scientific I have ever witnessed, and Mr. Johnny Gideon (who saw the majority of Tom Sayers' fights) expressed his opinion that it was the best he had ever seen. John Percival, another old-timer, made the same remark. Kilrain had decidedly the best of the fight. He won first fall, first blood and first fair knockplace in Smith's corner, where the ground was higher than in any other portion of the ring. The wrestling was all in favor of Kil-rain, as Smith did not gain half a dozen falls. KILRAIN'S FIRST BLUNDER.

"In the fourth round Kilrain felled Smith to the ground with a right hander on the ear and Smith came up very groggy for the next. The mistake Kilrain made at this point was in not following up his advantage and forcing the fighting, but I suppose he thought he had the trump card in hand. Later, when Mitchell result was a sharp, bustling round, Smith getting the best of it, so for some rounds afterward Kilrain pursued his old tactics of not throwing a chance away, out Smith all the time was growing stronger Kilrain threw Smith nearly every time, and nce countered him very heavily on the jaw, bringing the Englishman to his knees. This bringing the Englishman to his knees. This blow nearly settled the fight, but again Smith answered sharp to the call of time, and Kilrain once more failed to hurry matters to a finish. Though Smith in every round was thrown to the ground be appeared to be refreshed rather than otherwise by the falls. Had the ground been even moderately hard of course the wrestling business would have soon settled Smith's chance of success; but the grass was very thick, coarse and long, and the turf soft from recent rains, so really it was like being thrown on a feather bed. The falls, therefore, only gave Smith the rest he needed.

"In addition to the two terrible blows I have mentioned, either of which would have knocked ninety-nine men out of a hundred out of time, Klirain landed with his full force another right hander flush on Smith's mouth, grassing the Englishman flat on his back, but upon time being called Smith was first up to renew the battle, though bleeding from the mouth, the blood trickling on to his chest. Klirain's right eye at this point, which Smith's left kept repeatedly visiting, appeared as if it would close, so the Englishman changed his tactics by having a go for the left one, but he only got home once with the right there. The rest of the fighting was tame. Smith acting upon the advice of his seconds, cut the fighting as short as possible in each round and left Rilrain to do all the throwing. No sooner did Klirain or Smith lead off than they would clinch, and down they went, Smith mostly underneath. Indeed, toward the close Smith did not seem desirous of contesting some of the falls, evidently having a liking for being put upon his back, thereby gaining time for recovery from the effects of the punishment he had received.

TOO DARK FOR FURTHER WORK.

"It was quite plain to the merest tyro when time was called for the 100th round that Kilrain had no chance of finishing Smith before darkness set in, and the umpires said they would not be able to see the time much longer. At the end of the 104th round they put their watches in their pockets and informed me that it was useless going on, as they could not see the time. I ordered the men to fight on, and two rough but well-contested rounds were fought, each trying all he knew, minus time-keepers, but without any decided advantage to either, Jack being as good as his master. Indeed, Smith, who must have a marvelous constitution, fairly held his own in the last four rounds, and I'm sure the fight could not have been finished much inside another hour, and the Englishman might have finally outstayed Kilrain and snatched the battle out of the fire. Anyway, seeing that there was no prospect of the battle being finished, I ordered a cessation of hostilities for the day.

WHERE THE "DRAW" WAS FIXED UP.

"Mitchell saked when the fight was to be revived. I replied "The earliest possible opportunity." He said, 'When will that be' I re-TOO DARK FOR FURTHER WORK.

Bill Thompson (Bendigo) and Ben Caunt fought at Sutfield Green, England, September 9, 1845, for the championship of England. Ninety-three rounds were fought in 2 hours 10 minutes, when the fight ended by a foul. Deaf Burk and Simon Byrne fought for £200 at No Man's Land, England, May 30, 1833; 99 rounds were fought in 3 hours 6 minutes. Mike Larkin and Simon Byrne fought on June 4, 1825, at Brassigton race course, Ireland; the fight lasted 138 rounds, which lasted 2 hours 51 minutes. Chas. Freeman, the American giant, and William Perry, the Tipton Slasher, fought at Sawbridgeworth December 14, 1842; 70 rounds were fought in 1 hour 24 minutes, when darkness came on; 70m Sayers and Jack Grant fought 64 rounds, 2 hours 50 minutes; Harry Poulson and Tom Sayers fought 109 rounds in 3 hours and 8 minutes, at Appledore, England, January 29, 1886; Aaron Jones and Tom Sayers fought in England January 6, 1857; the fight lasted 3 hours and ended in a draw, darkness coming on; Joe Coburn and Jem Mace fought for the championship of the world at Bay St. Louis, Miss., November 30, 1871. The fight lasted 3 hours. These are only a few of the many protracted fistic events that prove that Kilrain and Smith's battle was a geauine one and not, as many say, a fake.

The Sale of Florence M.

William Daly, the horse owner and trainer, has been sued by Henry D. Markstone, a Brooklyn merchant, for $5,000 or the return of the running mare Florence M.
Mr. Markstone alleges that in September, 1880, he hired Mr. Daly to train the mare for speed, but that subsequently Daly represented to him that she was likely to go lame and break down. Soon, Mr. Markstone says, Daly brought John Flynn to him as a buyer, and advised that he sell the animal for $1,900. Mr. Markstone did so. He noticed at the time that Flynn had very little money with him, and that the greater part of it was paid for Flynn by Daly.

Afterward he learned, he says, that the mare was by no means unfit for racing, and that Daly was her real owner. In his answer Mr. Daly says his representations to Markstone were based on the opinions of a veterinary surgeon. He admits that he bought the mare from Flynn for $1,200, but he insists that he has nottifed Markstone of his willingness to return the mare if he would return the $1,200. Mr. Markstone donies this, and says Daly wanted $5,000 for the return of the turn of the running mare Florence M.

The Boston people have soured on Soden and the "Big Three," and a bean-eating journalist declares: "Give Boston a first-class American Association Club at 22 cents admission, handled by Boston parties who have an ounce of liberality in their souls, and the venture would make $50,000 the first year."

Sam Morton, President of the Western Association of Professional Base Bail Clubs, laughs at the idea of establishing an American Association club in Kansas City. E. Menges' team would starve to death."—[Chicago Herald.
"The most notable engagement of the season so far is that of the ex-Harvard pitcher, James A. Tyng, by the Philadelphia Ciub," says the Sporting Times. "The fact that the man was and has been for a year past in great demand and in receipt of extremely liberal offers from nearly all the prominent clubs in the country alone was sufficient to make his capture by the Phillies sensational. His acknowledged ability as a batsman, base-runner, pitcher and general player also serves to make his acquisition an event of importance."

John I. Rogers said last evening that the American Association was not likely to derive much benefit from the scheme it had adopted in regard to retaining the franchise of the Metropolitan Club in New York for any future need. He says the League has just as much right to claim a franchise for St. Louis in place of the St. Louis Marcona; that it would be a nice question to decide whether the Metropolitan Club by playing all its games on Staten Island in 1887 had not forfeited its New York franchise by that action, and that if opening an office would establish a club in a town the League or the Association could afford to block every city of 5,000 population in the country.—[Philadelphia Record.

Walter Kolnig, who was arrested by Office Kickham yesterday afternoon at a disreputa ble house on Sixth and Elm streets, where he was telling the fortune of Fannie E. Belmont, by examining the paim of her hand, was up before Judge Cady on a charge of fortune-telling without a license. It was shown that he has been visiting these houses and charging the women at the rate of 50 cents to examine the palm of one hand and examine the palm of one hand and 75 cents for examining both palms and telling them the fortunes therein contained. In court, this morning, he claimed it was a legitimate business and a science. "I studied and learned palmistry in Europe," said he, "and it comes under the same head as phrenology and theosophy. I have practiced it in cultured Boston and other places, and have never before been asked to pay a license and did not know one was necessary here. I do not pretend to be able tell the future positively by the palm, but I can tell the probabilities just as the Government Signal Service, "If you can do no better than the Signal Service," "They can do no better than the Signal Service," remarked the Court, "It is a poor science. I will fine you 550 and send you to the rock pile for a few months and see if you can read the lines in your own hands after you come out."

$10 PER BUSHEL.

What Judge Cady Charged a Very Mean Coal Thief This Morning.

John Peter Nicolaus, an honest-looking tion for honesty by his neighbors, was tried of having an illegal certificate for a load of coal. The testimony showed that John Peter's appearance and reputation were at total variance with his true character. He lives at 2019 De Kalb street, which house he owns, and earns a livelihood by baying and selling coal in small quantities, having his own horse and cart. Officer Nugent had been informed that the man was swindling his customers in the weight of coal and resolved to watch him. Thursday he saw Nicholans have a load weighed and quietly followed up his cart. He saw the man drive to his own house, unload some of the coal into his own shed and then drive on. As he was about to drive on the officer took him in charge and had the coal reweighed. The certificate Nicolaus first received was for thirty-one bushels of coal. When weighed a second time he had twenty-eight and a half bushels on his wagon, having thrown off two and a half bushels into his own shed. He denied having unloaded any coal in the shed and said he had merely placed his shovel and seat-board there. A woman who rents from him testified to the same facts, and witnesses to his good character, but Judge Cady said: "It is useless. There is ne doubt about this man's guilt. He has not only been guilty of stealing, but has been guilty of stealing, but has been guilty of the meanest kind of theft. He stole coal from poor unfortunates who can ill afford to lose a tew bushels. I will charge him a the rate of $10 for every bushel he took from that wagon. His fine will total variance with his true character. H

The meeting of the Pedagogical Society was largely attended this morning notwithstanding the bad weather. The paper of the day was read by Mr. H. D. Eirchner. It was on "Scientific and Collateral Information in the Primary Grades." The idea which Mr. Kirchner sought to convey was that the reading lesson should be made of more use to the child than the mere skill at reading printed words involved in its task. The most insignificant object mentioned in the reading lesson carried with it a vast amount of extraneous information. For instance, a hobbyhorse involved certain information coming under the heads of "wood" and "hair" and "mechanical art." This was only an example, and a simple glance along the line would "mechanical art." This was only an example, and a simple glance along the line would illustrate the force of the point made.

The paper provoked considerable discussion, which was indulged in by Messrs. T. E. Vickroy, Chas. Evans, H. W. Teuteberg, H. W. Prentis, George T. Murphy, E. H. Long, J. S. Collins and others.

The President of the Society was late and the chair was occupied by the Vice-President, Mr. Collins.
